Why Do Nonprofit Organizations Matter?

The nonprofit sector is an important industry in Bexar County. It employs tens of thousands of San Antonians and infuses billions of dollars into the local economy. But the significance of nonprofits goes well beyond dollars and cents. Indeed, nonprofit organizations are considered by many to be the heart of the community. Nonprofit organizations work across multiple sectors to meet vital community needs and enhance the quality of life for all.

The ongoing public health crisis and the call for racial justice has truly unveiled the central role the nonprofit sector plays in stabilizing our economy and the critical role this sector will continue playing during the recovery.

Nonprofits are trusted organizations that have a unique ability to serve as connective tissue in the community by leveraging resources to build collaborations between private-public entities, professionals and volunteers to work together toward the common good. Among other key roles, nonprofits educate, shelter, feed, heal, develop leaders and inspire – all while driving economic growth.

Nonprofits are led by passionate professionals who are experts and leaders in their fields. They are also employers and revenue generators. Nonprofits stand shoulder to shoulder with other industries and contribute to the economic strength of their communities at the local, state and national levels.

National Impact

Nationally, nonprofits are the 3rd largest providers of workforce and payroll in the U.S.

2020 John Hopkins Center for Civil Studies Report

Texas Impact

1 in 8 Texas jobs are tied to the nonprofit sector.

Nonprofit employment in Texas grew 29% between 2007 and 2017.

Built for Texas Report 2019

Highlights

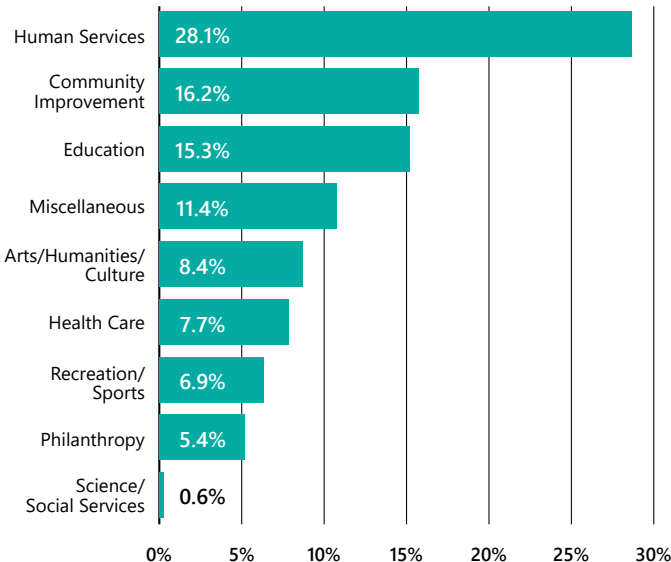

Bexar County nonprofit organizations offer a double bottom line by providing both a positive social impact with services, goods, and resources to meet our community’s most critical needs and a financial impact – serving as a powerful force in the San Antonio-area economy.

- Their revenues and expenditures of $6 billion make them, as a group, one of the region’s largest industries.
- They employ nearly 68,000 San Antonians (approximately 7% of the San Antonio metropolitan area labor force) and pay them $2.5 billion per year.
- They are also very broad in scope. Nonprofits provide San Antonians with everything from human services to the arts to recreation and sports.

The Nonprofit Industry in Bexar County

Bexar County nonprofits are involved in nearly every facet of community life. About 60% of them are in the Human Services, Community Improvement and Education sectors.

Nonprofit Organizations by Sector

Bexar County Nonprofits are Both Large and Small

Most Bexar County nonprofits are small organizations. In fact, nearly 80% have fewer than 10 employees.

However, there are 26 nonprofit organizations that employ more than 500 people. Most of these are in the education and healthcare sectors.

Employees in Nonprofit Organizations

The range of annual revenues is correspondingly large. More than half of Bexar County nonprofits have revenues less than $250,000. At the other end of the scale, there are 99 Bexar County nonprofits with revenues in excess of $10 million. Ten large organizations generate revenue of more than $100 million.

Nonprofit Organizations by Revenue

Most Nonprofits are Charitable or Educational Institutions

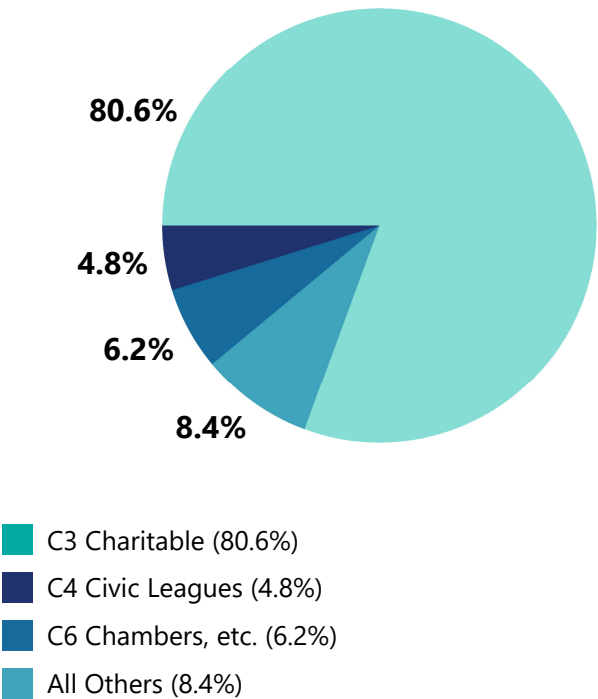

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) recognizes 29 different varieties of nonprofit businesses.

Those classified by the IRS as 501(c)3 organizations, nonprofits with charitable, religious, or educational missions, make up more than 80% of Bexar County nonprofits.

In addition, Bexar County is home to numerous 501c(6)s, including business leagues and chambers of commerce, and 501(c)4s, including civic leagues and social welfare organizations. Other nonprofits in the region include veterans’ organizations, religious organizations other than houses of worship, life insurance associations, and many others.

Note that churches, synagogues, mosques, etc. are not included in this study, since they do not file returns with the Internal Revenue Service.

Category of Nonprofit Organization

The Community Impact of our Current Times

COVID-19 unfortunately has only exacerbated the preexisting needs in San Antonio that are often split along racial lines. As a result, these times have catapulted the role of the nonprofit sector to both stabilize the economy and create space for an equitable economic recovery. Nonprofits are simultaneously being called on to drastically increase their aid to meet the needs of families by providing basic needs such as hygiene items, food, and shelter through new modalities, while experiencing significant loss of income/revenue with cancelled fundraising events and drastic changes in their staffing models. Organizations are making tough decisions that will impact their ability to serve – which will impact us all. Investment in this sector will be critical as we look ahead.

Additionally, Nonprofit organizations are using this opportunity to advocate for systemic change that created these preexisting needs by shining a light on the conditions of our community that have been traditionally overlooked. Leaders are identifying needs, working to find innovative solutions and driving change.

The Catalytic Role of the Nonprofit Sector to Rebuild for Resiliency

This inaugural report underscores that the nonprofit sector stands shoulder to shoulder with other industries in serving as not only as an economic driver but also as a social impact driver. This sector will be at the center of our economic recovery.

As trusted members of our community with a unique ability to serve as a crucial partner, the nonprofit sector can bridge private-public partnerships, engage professionals and inspire volunteers – bringing out the best of San Antonio and what makes our city stand out from other communities. Our collective care for and understanding of the power of the nonprofit sector will shape our city's future – to rebuild for resiliency and to imagine and create a new economic reality that creates space for all.

ABOUT THE STUDY

ABOUT THE STUDY

ABOUT THE STUDY

It establishes a Baseline

This study was funded by the San Antonio Area Foundation and co-developed with the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, Family Service Association, the Nonprofit Council, and United Way of San Antonio and Bexar County.

The study is intended to establish a baseline for measuring the impact of nonprofits in Bexar County. It is the most comprehensive examination of the county's nonprofit industry ever attempted.

The sponsors intend to repeat the study biennially to track the evolution and growth of the local nonprofit industry.

Which Nonprofits are Included?

At the outset, the investigators acquired the Tax-Exempt World list of Bexar County nonprofit organizations. This list included more than 12,000 entities. However, the only comprehensive source of reliable data for nonprofits is the Forms 990 they file with the Internal Revenue Service. More than 3,000 organizations that had filed Forms 990 according to Tax Exempt World were extracted from the master file.

Many small organizations either didn't file a 990 or were sufficiently small (gross revenues of less than $50,000) that they were only required to file a Form 990-N, a postcard form that requires only identifying information and confirmation that gross receipts were less than $50,000.

Researchers then removed all the organizations that were not in Bexar County, filed only 990-N's or for which the latest 990 available was for a year prior to 2015. That left a sample of 1,731 nonprofits for which reasonably current data was available.

Data Obtained

This study incorporates data from three different versions of Form 990:

Form 990 for organizations with gross receipts of at least $200,000 or total assets of at least $500,000. Organizations filing Form 990 must report (among many other things) gross receipts, total expenses, employee compensation and the number of employees.

Form 990-EZ may be filed by organizations with gross receipts less than $200,000 and total assets less than $500,000. Form 990-EZ includes all the items listed above except for the number of employees.

Form 990-PF for private foundations. The data available from it is the same as that found on Form 990-EZ.

Obtaining the Forms 990

The study team consulted a number of sources to access the Forms 990 filed by 1,731 organizations in the sample. These included:

- The IRS website
- GuideStar
- Charity Navigator
- Economic Research Institute
- Candid.org

How Current is the Data?

The most recent 990's available were for 2018. The database includes the most recent filing for each organization, which could have been for 2015, 2016, 2017 or 2018. [92% were from 2017 or 2018.] Thus, the study presents a snapshot of the nonprofit industry as it was well prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, which will surely reshape the nonprofit landscape. It will not be possible to collect comparable data that includes 2020 until 2022 at the earliest.

Caveats

The estimates presented in this study are very conservative, since some of the relevant information was not available. Specifically, the following are not included:

- Employment data for organizations filing Form 990-EZ.
- All organizations filing Form 990-N or not filing a return.
- Organizations for which a 2015 or later 990 could not be found.
- Churches and other houses of worship. Though they are organized as nonprofits, they don't file 990's.
- The number of volunteers. This data is included in Form 990 and will be collected in future studies.
